

WUnderground

New Look, Same Great Taste!

"Let's get basted!"

VOLUME 14, ISSUE 2

NOVEMBER 17, 2017

PRICE: ANSWERING ME THESE RIDDLES THREE

God Suspended Due to Hazing Incident

The Initiation of Adam

God has been temporarily suspended from the known universe after several reports of a violent hazing incident this past weekend. Under the euphemistic guise of a "faith-building exercise," God is alleged to have commanded Abraham, a pledge, to climb a mountain and murder his son, Isaac.

Rumors of God's hazing activities have been swirling for eons and have included turning pledges into salt, removing pledges' ribs, and unleashing thousands of frogs and making pledges clean them up. This weekend's incident is the first to be officially reported.

"Saying no in these situations isn't really an option," said Abraham. "While everything is technically voluntary, it's difficult to refuse in an environment in which you're trying to prove your undying loyalty to a supreme moral authority. The peer pressure is very real."

"Oh my Me, bro, this whole thing is being blown WAY out of proportion," responded God when asked for comment. "I obviously wasn't gonna let him actually kill his son." Witness testimonies have indeed corroborated that the Creator and Ruler of the Universe shouted out "PSYCH, PUSSY!" at the critical moment.

Authorities are currently working out the logistics of suspending an omnipotent and omnipresent abstract being.

Senior Not Like Those Other Guys

Sources close to the subject report that Wash U senior Jasper Simmons is nothing like all those other assholes. "Jasper doesn't care about typical guy stuff like fantasy football and grilling things," points out sophomore Lena Smith. "He would much rather teach you about Sufjan Stevens and the merits of local craft breweries and talk about how that one Gloria Steinem book broadened his perspective on toxic masculinity." A recent sighting of Simmons playing Jeff Buckley's Lilac Wine on the acoustic guitar confirms theories that he is both culturally and emotionally literate; moreover, those in Simmons' circles agree that he is far more in touch with his feelings than most guys. "It's refreshing how he makes sure you know exactly how he feels," says Smith. "He's super sensitive to others' oppression, so he's an ally, he doesn't see color, and he doesn't believe in the wage gap. His great aunt is half-Jewish, so he understands a lot about Jewish culture. Plus, he believes in putting an end to animal cruelty, so even though he eats meat he tries not to wear that much leather."

In the dating arena, Simmons is similarly compassionate. "He's always really conscious of making sure your needs are being taken into consideration," reports longtime friend Emma Kotfica. "At a restaurant he'll sample twelve different wines so that he can choose one he's sure you'll love." Junior Ashley Weintraub adds, "His favorite movie is a little nuanced, so whenever he shows it to a girl he'll pause every few minutes to explain the hidden symbolism. He's so considerate."

Another poignant testimony praised the fact that "You can tell he respects women by the way he's always talking about how much he loves his mom, even when it seems to have nothing to do with the conversation."

Although typically very vocal about his innate understanding of female needs, Simmons declined to provide a statement at press time, as he was preoccupied lending his Alpha Delt crewneck to that girl in his philosophy seminar.

Find Simmons on Bumble or working on his manuscript in the back room at Meshuggah.

Buried WUnderground

Op-Ed: On Opportunism by Kevin Spacey

Page A

Top Ten Times Your Roommate Hit "Snooze" Between 7 and 8 AM This Morning

This Page

Winter Style Guide: Your Keys to Looking Cool While Freezing Your Fucking Ass Off!

That Other Page

Engineering Students Google "Fun" in Preparation for Vertigo

A Whole 'Nother Page

Next Olin Entrance to be Tunnel From Art School

Page Eleventeen

Trump Lambasts Netflix: "My Things Are Even Stranger-- the Strangest Things!"

Page 8°|8

One Year After the Election: Where Are They Now?

On November 8, 2016, Donald Trump won the presidency of the United States, bringing an end to a roller coaster of election drama that lasted over two years. One year later, WUnderground checked in with some of the 2016 race's most important figures. Here's where they are now.

Hillary Rodham Clinton

Everybody remembers Secretary Clinton, the inspiring and immensely qualified female figure that won the hearts of millions of illegal voters. In September she released a bestselling book detailing the four months she spent lost in the woods of Westchester County, New York, immediately following the election and her epic struggle to survive. A tireless worker, Clinton was seen last week unloading the last of 600,000 "Madam President" buttons into a U-Haul storage locker.

Paul Manafort

President Trump's former campaign chairman is currently celebrating the one-year anniversary of victory with an indefinite staycation at his $2 million home in Alexandria, Virginia.

Ken Bone

The undecided-voter-turned-celebrity has made the most of his fifteen minutes of fame, making frequent unsolicited public appearances in the characteristic red sweater that caught the eye of the nation.

But glory comes at a cost-- Bone's wife and kids left him in June when he had gone just 8 months without changing his sweater, a period that has now reached 13 months. With no end in sight, Bone continues sending emails to universities offering to give commencement addresses and pitching his personal fragrance line, "Bon(n)e Odeur," to employees at the Macy's beauty counter.

Jeb!

The former governor of Florida was last seen eating a somber brunch with Mitt Romney, the melancholy silence interrupted only by the occasional remark about "poor people."

Bernie Sanders

The Vermont Senator who garnered a militant following of young voters during the 2016 race has stayed busy, continuing to fight for his signature causes of universal health care and economic justice. Senator Sanders was recently seen giving an impassioned impromptu speech about income inequality to a small crowd at the Burlington AMC Theatre after being misinformed by a friend about Sunday matinee prices and haggling with a teenage cashier for over twenty minutes.

Дмитрий Арзамасцев

One of the most influential players in the 2016 election, computer scientist Дмитрий Арзамасцев (in Latin script, Dmitry Arzamastsev) lives a quiet life with his wife and two daughters in Moscow.

WUnderground

WUnderground is WashU's premier [only] satirical newspaper and should be taken about as seriously as the B-schooler in your comparative literature intensive.

The news reported by this paper is completely fictitious, at least to our knowledge. Any resemblance to persons living or dead is entirely intentional.

Chiefs of Staff

Carter Paterson
President

Nate Graham
Editor in Chief

Justin Kroll
Editor in Chief

Staff

Adam Kaufman

Aaron Dozzi

Nathan Marak

Brooke Nosratian

Henry Wineburgh

Landon Frankenstein

Rahul Oza

Arjun Puri

Rohit Kumar

Zach Moskow

Grace Fellman

Unpaid Interns

Mikki Janower

Jess King

Ike Butler

Max Woods

Jack Killeen

Zoe Cooke

Jack Winkelman

Alex Levy

Max Lichtenstein

If you would like to write, edit, xfinity and virginity, etc., then email us at:

wunderground@su.wustl.edu

9 771144 875007
ISSN # 1938-0089

wunderground.wustl.edu

Staff Review: Strange Thingers Returns To Netflix

Look out, spoilers ahead!

Hot dog! It's time for another season of one of Netflix's scariest shows, Strange Thingers! It's a must-watch for everybody who loves television and fears the 1980s. Season Two of Strange Thingers reintroduces fans to the citizens of Hawkey, Indiana, one year after the Demigloggin attacked the town middle school.

Thingers should have returned to normal for Willy Buyers and his friends, but they got strangelier instead: Twelve is missing, and Willy still senses the Sideways Place. Uh-oh! He and his friends Mork, Duster, and Bookas need to work with Sheriff Popper to determine the source of all the strange thingers before all the evil old white men make them stranganger. Wowzers!

Meanwhile, Noncy feels guilty about the death of Glasses, and romance runs cold for her and Even Steven. Willy's older brother Jima-than still doesn't have friends. There are even more Demigloggins in the Sideways place. Winona Ryder can't kick her smoking habit. As if that wasn't enough strange thingydingers happening, there's a new girl in town and she can't read.

It's hard to believe all these strange thingers actually happened, and only Netflix knew about them. There's so much more to learn. What's in store for Willy and the gang? Is Glasses back from the dead? Why is the Sideways Place so angry? Do nosebleeds lead to magic powers? Pumpkins? And where has Mister Mayor been this whole time? Find out how by watching Strange Thingers Two.

Six Foolproof Tricks for Mind-Blowing Sex

1. Talk Dirty

Here's a classic move for all you filthy animals out there: don't be afraid to get a little dirty in the bedroom. You will absolutely blow your partner's mind if you whisper, "More than 14 billion pounds of waste are dumped into the world's oceans every year," right at the point of climax.

Take your sex life to the next level with these tips written for virgins by virgins.

2. Try Role-Playing

Getting in character allows you and your partner to see each other in a new light; plus, it gives you the opportunity to act out your secret fantasies. Try acting as Mike Pence while he or she plays a Build-a-Bear with a hole in it, or dressing up as animals to remember that the astounding current rate of biodiversity loss is the highest in Earth's history!

3. Spice Things Up

Looking to bring a little heat to your boudoir repertoire? Try incorporating a splash of Sriracha! You can put that stuff on anything, if you know what we mean. That said, make sure it's organic-- don't forget that fertilizers in agricultural runoff have created a dead zone the size of New Jersey in the Gulf of Mexico.

4. Communicate With Your Partner

Explaining exactly what's going on as it happens in real time reassures your partner that you're present and attentive during your most intimate moments together; the more detail you can provide, the better. Moreover, using third-person narration throughout helps keep you both in the know regarding each others' needs and gives you the opportunity to inform your partner about the rapidly increasing rate at which our rainforests are being cut down.

5. Bleach Baby, Bleach

Has using the back door lost its magic? Mix things up by getting that butthole as white as 93% of the Great Barrier Reef's coral, which has already been bleached due to relentlessly rising ocean temperatures!

6. Do it Naked

Kinky, right? While not for the faint of heart, by ditching the clothing you can help lessen the carbon footprint of the apparel industry, which currently accounts for 25% of the world's pesticide usage. Moreover, it makes the actual act of penetration significantly easier!

But wait... there's actually seven tips!

7. Do it Raw

Looking to go one step further? If you and your partner ditch the rubbers we guarantee you'll understand how we ended up with 7 billion people and by some estimates exceeded Earth's capacity to sustain the human population over a decade ago!

Point

"Food in the Village is so fucking slow."

By: Evan Cortez
Junior

I've been waiting for my patty melt for like half an hour, man. I'm pretty sure like three guys that ordered after me have already gotten their food. I've spent this whole time trying to figure out what the system is for when they put stuff on the grill, it's just a mystery to me. Also it's great that this dude in front of me gets along with the chefs and chats them up, you know, but there's a limit man, there are like thirty people here and we're fucking hungry, bro.

Counter-Point

"..."

By: Sarah Whitman
Died while waiting for food at Village Grill

Astros Win Important Baseball Game

Two baseball teams, the Astros and the Dodgers (the two baseball teams), play in an exciting! game of baseball.

On November 1, 2017, the Houston Astros defeated the LA Dodgers to win their first World Series. This specific baseball matchup was played between these teams to determine the winner of the game. There are many factors that led to the Astros winning the game, so it's helpful to break it down.

Simply put, the Astros beat the Dodgers by scoring more points during the game. At the end of it, the Astros had 5 points, and the Dodgers only had 1 point. Because they had 4 more points than the Dodgers, the Astros are considered the winners. But how exactly did they get those points?

To earn points, a team must catch, throw, and hit a baseball accordingly. For a team to perform well, each individual player must possess these skills. Therefore, it goes without saying that one of the main reasons the Astros won the World Series baseball game is because their players were good at baseball. The Dodgers, on the other hand, had different players than the Astros. These Dodgers players did not catch, throw, and hit baseballs quite as well as the Astros players did. It is important to note how the Astros players could catch, throw, and hit baseballs so well that night.

Handling a baseball with proficiency often stems from practicing baseball. The Astros practiced baseball by catching, throwing, and hitting quite a bit before the big showdown against the Dodgers. As would be expected, practicing baseball requires a ball. And every player gets a bat, but only sometimes. The same goes for mitts. Balls, bats, and mitts are required to practice baseball and therefore win the World Series. But how exactly are these balls, bats, and mitts used in conjunction with one another? Let's explore that.

These three kinds of objects are used by the players of the two teams. Depending on the situation, one team has bats while the other team has balls and mitts. The players with bats don't want the balls so they hit them away. The players with balls throw them because they want the bat-wielding team to have the balls. Oh, and the mitts. Both teams have certain players with mitts to catch the balls, because a team gets points by catching balls. Both teams follow these rules while running around inside a diamond. Each team has 9 turns with the bats and 9 turns with the balls.

Sometimes players steal to get a leg up. They steal balls or bats, whichever their team needs more of. To complicate things, there are also hot dogs, people kissing on a giant TV screen, and random folks who aren't on either team but wear jerseys anyway and yell at the players. During the exciting, action-packed, chaotic game on November 1st, the Houston Astros managed to get 5 baseball points. That is how they won the World Series.

Top 10...

Things That Probably Suprised Adam and Eve

10. Needing a credit score above 550 to get a loan
9. The plot twist at the end of Gone Girl
8. The apple that didn't keep the doctor away
7. The fact that an individual blood cell takes sixty seconds to make a complete circuit of the human body
6. The fossil record
5. When their son died and they totally did not know what death was
4. When their son woke up the next morning and they totally did not know what sleep was
3. Pooping
2. When Eve threw Adam a surprise party for his fifteenth birthday
1. The first time they saw their Dad naked

What Do You Think?

It's No-Shave November and students all over campus are growing out their facial hair for cancer awareness. What do you think?

Ayesha Anand

Boyfriend has broad interpretation of "No-Shave"

"It's about to be a longass month for Mike."

Seth Goldfarb

Doesn't understand concept of sunk costs

"I'm already subscribed to the Dollar Shave Club, so unfortunately I can't participate."

Justin X. Carroll

Former Dean of Students, Cell Block 7A

"Convenient timing, given the strict no-razor policy here."

Lee 3 Shower Drain

Should have requested a modern but wanted the "community" of a traditional

"Jesus Christ, I can breathe again!"

George Washington

Freshman, can't grow a beard

"I mean, I've always wanted to grow it out just to see what it would look like, so this is great!"