

Watch out for bad ombres

Junior Wakes up Face-First in a Ditch, Still Pretty Confident he Remembers Fall WILD

Pulling his face from the caked mud of a drainage ditch two doors down from his off-campus apartment, junior Justin Navarro told reporters that he definitely remembers making it to fall WILD this year. "Oh yeah, I was totally now," he added.

"I didn't go for the band though; just the free beer," Navarro laughed, starting the walk home and dragging behind him what increasingly appeared to be a broken leg. "Lukas Graham is so lame, great choice again SPB," he continued, referencing the band he was 100% sure he remembered being disappointed by hours earlier.

Justin Navarro having a great time with friends

there," Navarro said, picking pebbles out of his hair and tripping over empty cans of Milwaukee's Best as he scanned his surroundings for either one of his sneakers. "It's all coming back to me

Navarro's roommates Craig and Mikey were quick to corroborate his story. "WILD? Yeah, WILD was crazy, I definitely remember it," said Craig, sitting on the couch, guzzling a family-size bottle of Pedialyte as Mikey confirmed with a limp thumbs up from his position slumped over the dinner table. The pair's third roommate, Derek "Big-Meat"

Henderson was not available for comment, although Craig was "almost positive [he] saw Big-Meat try and fight a B&D dude." When asked about this confrontation, B&D head of security Joe Vittorio laughed slightly and said, "Obviously I remember the incident, and obviously I remember taking the proper steps to address it," as he kicked an empty bottle of Honey-Jack deeper beneath his desk.

After arriving home and spending twenty minutes attempting to get his key into the lock, Navarro collapsed into his front hall and boldly declared fall WILD to be a "great success" which "I without a doubt remember all of." Lifting his head up briefly from the floor he added, "I honestly can't believe there are some lightweights who black-out and don't remember something like that," before being cut-off by his need to vomit in the pocket of a nearby hoodie.

United States Admits Half of Existing Conspiracies True; Conspiracy Theorists Vindicated

The U.S. government released a statement on Tuesday confirming that exactly half of all existing conspiracy theories are true, surprising many and filling others with a smug sense of satisfaction. The entire nation has been discussing the comprehensive 1,543-page report confirming and denying various conjectures.

Many conspiracy theorists, both amateur and professional, expressed excitement over the validation of their unlikely (yet somehow true) speculations. "I knew there was something suspicious about those chemtrails," Alex Jones of InfoWars.com gloated.

"Looks like Big Government isn't getting away with this one."

Others were puzzled that their theories were off. Jebediah Karsen, a plumber from Arkansas, was dismayed to find out that Barack Obama was not born in Kenya. "But at least he's secretly Muslim!" he noted.

At a Green Party rally, Presidential candidate Jill Stein addressed the report. "I'd like to apologize for my incorrect comments regarding vaccines; clearly I was wrong to advocate for homeopathy over modern medicine. That being said, the report confirmed that wireless internet causes brain tumors in children - we need to ban Wi-Fi from schools NOW!"

In the midst of this controversy, some remain skeptical of the news. "The government finally admitted that JFK was kidnapped by aliens who escaped from Area 51... but what if that's what they want us to think?" asked Tim Scott, an insurance salesman from Florida. "It just seems too convenient..."

"Come to think of it, that 'official document' they released doesn't even mention lizard people once. When will these sheeple open their eyes?!"

Buried WU Underground

Decrease in Number of Squirrels, Increase in Number of Davy Crockett-Style Hats Around Campus After Missouri Passes New Concealed-Carry Law

Page 1835

Gen Chem Professor Instructs Students:

"LABSCI MAKE SOME FUCKING NOIIIIISE"

Page HCL03

WUndertake: Halloween is the One Day a Year a Lizard Person Can Dress like a Slut and No Other Lizard Person can Say Anything About it.

Page G6

Sharp Uptake in Dad Costumes as Frat Boys Try to Woo Moms.

Page 8^4*6

Johnson Wonders if Anyone Still Remembers Him.

Page Nah?

Sumers Family Pissed People are Still Going to Call it the AC.

Page 50lbs

Wrighton Email MadLibs: Election Edition

To the Washington University community:

I write to you today to address the Presidential election that concluded yesterday. Yesterday, we, the (Nationality) people, voted into office (Famous Celebrity). While many on this campus may not (Verb) with this choice, it is imperative that we now (Verb) together as one (Body Part).

Indeed, our new president has a lot on their (Kitchen Appliance or Utensil). At this increasingly charged time in both our nation's and our campus' history, we must remain (Noun) in the (type of race) for social and racial equality. If you are at all (Sexual Emotion) in any way, I would like to emphasize that our campus resources, such as (Bears' Den Station) or (Upper Row Frat) are available to provide assistance.

As an academic institution and as a forum for (Adjective) speech, it is crucial that we continue to facilitate (Adjective) dialogue for (Plural Noun). University administration will be working actively in the coming weeks to create and develop further programs for (Name of Sport) training for both undergraduate and graduate (Profession).

I have always maintained a/an (Adverb) sense of (Noun) in the ability of our campus community to come together after (Name of Fraternity Open Party). It is my hope that students and faculty will open a dialogue for the final weeks of the semester and the year ahead, so that we may serve as an example of (Circus Profession) for our collegiate peers.

Sign-Off,

Mark S. Wrighton,
Chancellor of College in Washington State or Washington D.C. University in St. Louis

Sorority Girl or Dictator?

Can you match the caption to the picture? try in this fun, interactive quiz!

Fig. a

1. Santiago, Sept. 1973:
Gamma Phi Gamma sisters gather together for Preferences Day of Rush

Fig. b

2. South 40, Fall 2016:
After a successful coup, Pinochet's army marches down the streets of the Chilean capital in a chilling show of force.

Fig. c

3. Clayton, Oct. 2015:
North Korean party officials pose for a picture after successfully launching 3 nuclear warheads into South Korean airspace.

Fig. d

4. Pyongyang, Spring 2016:
Sorority sisters Sarah and Rachel walk into Pastaria for brunch

WUnderground

WUnderground is WashU's premier [only] satirical newspaper and should be taken about as seriously as this election or an amber alert.

However, the news reported by this paper is completely fictitious, at least to our knowledge. Any resemblance to persons living, ailing or dead is entirely intentional.

Chiefs of Staff

Creepy Callan
President

Pumpkin Witch
Editor in Chief

Simoan Ghoulson
Editor in Chief

Staff

Aaron Pizza Dough-zee

Pasty Paste Moskow

Justin Troll

Steak Robertson

Grim Reaper Slade

Nate Graham Crackers

Adam Coffin

Jacob Nason

Carter "Casey" Anthony

Gabby Pumpkin Spice Garcia

Ded Horrota

Unpaid Interns

Nathan Scare-ak

Henry "Ghostface"
Weinberg

Pasty Paste Moskow Jr.

Rohit Boo!mar

Grave Fellman

Arjun "grab them by the"
Puri

Brooke Nosferatu

Landon Frankenstein

If you would like to write, edit, tell us we're pretty, etc. then email us at:

wunderground@su.wustl.edu

ISSN # 1938-0089

wunderground.wustl.edu

A Guide to Networking

Deadlines are approaching for locking in that precious summer internship or that coveted career path. Wunderground understands you have a lot on your plate, so we compiled some tips for career networking. Have fun with the job search, and we'll see you at the top!

Follow these tips and you'll be bear-y successful in your job hunting efforts.

Tip 1.
Be present, be sure to smile and remain engaged with your subject!

Tip 2.
Be clear about your goals and what you hope to achieve.

Tip 3.
Raise your arms above your head, making yourself appear larger than the subject.

Tip 4.
Stand your ground, make lots of noise.

Tip 5.
Don't run. When you run, your subject will confuse you with prey, and they will be faster than you.

Tip 7.
Should you identify your subject as, in fact, the alpha, drop to the ground. Curl your knees into your chest, and cover the back of your neck.

Tip 8.
Should you feel the situation truly spiraling, cover yourself in leaves to appear submissive.

Tip 9.
Be sure to be confident with several media platforms – make yourself marketable!

Tip 6.
Don't attempt to climb a tree, your subject's claws are strong and specially designed for tree climbing.

Point

Counter-Point

Riding My Bike to Class is Great!

By: Kevin O'Neal
WashU Student, involved in every SU committee

It's super-duper efficient! I can make it from the 40 to Brookings in 4 minutes flat! I feel so powerful gliding down Forsyth past all those walking plebs as the wind flows through my hair. And when it's a little more crowded, bobbing and weaving through the sea of people can be fun, too!

You Know the Truth, Kevin.

By: Kevin O'Neal's Conscience
Literally the Conscience of Kevin O'Neal

You've already mowed down 9 people while "passing on your left!" 7 are currently in intensive care. You haven't ridden a bike since 3rd grade because, you know, cars, and it shows; your "bobbing and weaving" is more like "smashing and cleaving." I guess the thing about "never forgetting how to ride a bike" just doesn't apply to you, you clumsy fuck. Please, for the love of God, just walk like everybody else.

Campus Embroiled in Controversy After Sorority Girl Fails to Instagram Darty

With midterm season now over, students have embarked “darty season,” with at least 4 Saturday-afternoon bangers being held last weekend. However,

Here's the proof: that's me on the right !!!

a fun weekend has turned into a sour week as controversy surrounds campus about whether Junior Danielle Horowitz attended the weekend festivities after she failed to document the event on Instagram.

“I’ve been asked by countless people to prove I was there. It’s starting to really affect my emotional well-being,” Danielle told WUnderground reporters, on the verge of tears. “There is no other possible reason I can imagine that people would forget I was there. Didn’t they see me sink that cup in beer pong? Didn’t they see my cute denim-on-denim darty outfit? Did I just dream the whole thing?”

Self-proclaimed member of the junior class’s “Sexy Six,” Jane Moreton, believes that Danielle should easily be able to show evidence in Instagram form, stating: “I don’t believe there is even the slightest chance she was there if she didn’t post a photograph, it just wouldn’t make sense. She didn’t even have a Snapchat story on Saturday!”

Indeed, many agree with Moreton, including faculty. In an interview with StudLife, Philosophy Professor Timothy Givens posited that “if a sorority girl goes to a party and doesn’t thoroughly document it on social media, was she there at all?” To this question, Givens responded a resounding “no.”

Since last weekend, Danielle has learned her lesson, making sure to document her every action. To receive point-less updates about Danielle’s boring life, be sure to follow her on Instagram and Snapchat.

Apologize to Don Cheadle

You know what you did. Just say you're sorry to Don Cheadle. He knows you didn't mean it. He doesn't even think ill of you. All he wants is to know you regret doing what you did because it was wrong, plain and simple.

Listen, we all make mistakes, and Lord knows good ol Don has made a few himself. You know how shitty his accent was in Ocean's 11-- it was a total disaster. But he's only human, and you are too. He gets that. That being said, it's just the right thing to do to acknowledge when you mess up, ESPECIALLY given what YOU did.

I won't lie to you: It's not like he's just going to let it go. You can't do THAT and expect it's all water under the bridge. But Mr. Cheadle's not some heartless monster; he's just a man who's hurt, and he thinks you owe him an apology. Which you do.

Do. IT.

Top 10...

Top 10 Cons of Owning Firearms

10. Can't carry on domestic flights
9. Can't bring them to school
8. Everyone thinks you're in that new Transformers movie
7. Can't Wear Sleeves
6. Can't Get to Second Base
5. Apartment is a Fireproof Aluminum Cube
4. Sexually Uncomfortable Emails from Fantastic Four Cosplayers
3. No one invites you to Breckenridge
2. Easy to tell when you hit your kids
1. Everything you touch is immediately on fire

What Do You Think?

Jesus Christ the election still isn't over. What do you think?

Donald J. Trump
Orange troll doll

“Did I mention I hate women? Really hoping to lock in 50% of this year's electorate.”

Jake Bobertson
Frat bro, loves to do sex

“Do you know how much sex I missed because of that fn wall!?! By the way I have a lot of sex.”

Al Gore
was almost President

“I was almost President once.”

Jesus Christ of Nazareth

“Don't bring me into this man, I'm feelin third party.”

George Washington
white, also deceased

“A woman President?! The next thing you know there will be blacks in the white house...”