

WUnderground

The Least Most Less Confusingest Newspaper On Campus

Pie Chart Comprehension:
A Pie Chart

VOLUME 14, ISSUE 4

FEBRUARY 9, 2018

PRICE: AN ARM AND/OR A LEG

Valentine's Day Special: Best On-Campus Dates

Don't have wheels but still want to make this Valentine's Day unforgettable? These are the best ways to spend the 14th with your special someone right here on campus!

1. Student Health Services

Want to show your S.O. what a considerate lover you are? Take them with you while you get an STI test at SHS. No chocolate bar or teddy bear will top the peace of mind they'll get from knowing that your Valentine's gift to them isn't a juicy pink surprise from one of your multiple other partners!

2. Ibbey's "Bistro"

So the Fun Room is already full? Gosh darn it! Well, a great Plan B is Ibbey's, where you can overpay at a place with cloth napkins instead of overpaying at BD. Turn up the heat by feeding your lover a spoonful of creamy gnocchi and cardboard!

3. Your RA's Bed

Kinky, right? There's nothing hotter than ending the night by sneaking into your RA's bed for a steamy sesh in the sack. Careful, though-- your lover might be confused about why you have to be stealthy in their own room!

4. Renting Bikes from Bear Bikes and Riding in Circles Around the Clock Tower

This could be straight out of a rom com, right?! Possibly the most romantic option on our menu of precious on-campus dates is renting a couple of bikes and joyously riding around the clock tower and laughing until your respective roommates finish sexiling both of you and you can go to bed separately!

5. The Danforth Butterfly Garden

While there's nary a butterfly in sight, the Danforth butterfly garden is the perfect place to gaze up at the stars or dry hump in one of those hammock-chairs.

SHS To Use WebMD to Increase Accuracy of Diagnoses

In a move that brought a collective sigh of relief to the student body, Student Health Services has announced that its practitioners will begin using WebMD as a diagnostic tool. The announcement, which came amidst a rampant influenza outbreak and complaints that students are often severely misdiagnosed, has been met with overwhelming support from students and faculty.

"I went to SHS because I thought I had strep throat. I expected them to run some sort of test on me, but instead they put a cast on my right arm and told me not to worry about it," said sophomore Sarah Gagnon.

Unfortunately, stories like Sarah's are not uncommon. Senior Alex Hart was given penicillin for his sprained ankle, while sophomore Josie Mathers received a handful of Skittles when she came to SHS for a refill of her prescription for birth control.

There is widespread hope on campus that the use of WebMD at SHS will improve the accuracy of their diagnoses. Indeed, early results have been promising. Lisa, a huge fucking bitch who was selected to take part in a trial run of the program, stated that, thanks to WebMD, she received a much more accurate diagnosis than she expected.

"I went to SHS, suspecting that I had the stomach flu, and was instead diagnosed with stomach cancer.

While there's still room for improvement, I would definitely call it a step in the right direction—at least they had the right organ this time!"

SHS will begin rolling out the program over the next three weeks. In addition, it will be piloting a new mental health program in the coming months in which all psychiatrists will be replaced with cardboard cutouts of Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson in an effort to cut spending and shorten the wait time to book an appointment.

"Between our highly trained staff and our reliable internet connection," states a recent SHS press release, "we hope to give the WashU community the resources it needs to stay healthy through flu season."

Buried WUnderground

Finally! Mail Room to Start Allowing All Genders

Page Turner

Rushee Not the Right Fit, Also a Total Loser

Page Eleventy-Eight

New Whispers Tea Comes with Calc 1 and 2 Prereqs

Glossary

Apple Press Release: iPhone X Can't Recognize Your Mom's Face

Page $

Senate Divided by Highly Contested Decision to Rename Cheerios "Bagel Seeds"

Page Nein

Quiz: Are Your Friends Abroad or Just Avoiding You?

Page 2+2

Valentine's Day Guide, Continued: "How to Tell if the Teddy Bear Your Boyfriend Gave You Has a Camera" and More!

Page :/

ILLUMINATI Faces Applicant Shortage for Summer Internship Program

An undisclosed source close to the Illuminati recently admitted to trouble recruiting interns for the organization's 2018 summer program. In fact, the source reports, qualified candidates have yet to submit applications.

The Illuminati Summer Internship Intensive promises valuable insights into the Secret World Control industry as well as opportunities to cultivate crucial skill sets ranging from Corruption to basic Microsoft Excel capabilities. The eight-week paid program also boasts catered lunch on Fridays, full health coverage and a number of networking functions.

"Our Talent Acquisition team has been troubleshooting the apparent lack of interest in hopes that we'll draw more undergraduate students this summer," said the source, who wishes to remain anonymous. "We know that our program isn't perfect. Due to organizational policy we have no LinkedIn, CareerLink, website, telephone number or university representative available to applicants, and despite having the vast majority of the free world's money at our disposal, Illuminati dictum bans us from funding any sort of publicity initiative. Also, four of the ellipticals in our in-house gym are out of order and Susan already has standing dibs on the fifth. While we admit that these factors might discourage qualified candidates, we have set out to rectify the issues and create new incentives. We intend to talk some sense into Susan, and our team has begun stocking 'swag bags' with a curated selection of office supplies, snacks and branded goodies to welcome accepted applicants to the Illuminati team.

We hope these measures will help us woo hardworking students with previous experience in the field."

At press time, the situation had shown no improvement. Similar employers, including such prominent secret societies as the Rosicrucians and the Priory of Sion, reported similarly barren applicant pools for their summer internship initiatives. The Illuminati source was unable to comment, having vanished from social media and government records shortly after releasing the prior statement.

In addition to hourly wages and health benefits, Illuminati interns will receive "swag bags" containing a handpicked array of gifts and goodies.

photo credit: The Illuminati, llc.

Old Whispers vs. New Whispers: Can You Spot All Nine Differences?

Wow! After like six zillion years of construction, Olin Library has unveiled a beautiful new Whispers cafe. Can you spot all nine of the new additions?

Turn this page upside down to check your answers!

1. This one isn't a joke. The New Whispers will actually have a copy of the Declaration of Independence.
2. They serve Four Loko now
3. You had four living grandparents when Old Whispers was around
4. New Whispers only plays trap music
5. Old Whispers had better lighting for watching porn
6. You're not allowed to give birth in New Whispers
7. Last time you went to New Whispers, Lisa was sitting in a booth and you smiled at her but she didn't see you
8. When Old Whispers was here, Moana wasn't out yet
9. New Whispers is going to have a copy of the Declaration of Independence!

WUnderground

WUnderground is WashU's premier [only] satirical newspaper and should be taken about as seriously as the warning labels on Tide Pods.

The news reported by this paper is completely fictitious, at least to our knowledge. Any resemblance to persons living or dead is entirely intentional.

Chiefs of Staff

Nate Graham
President

Justin Kroll
Editor in Chief

Mikki Janower*
Editor in Chief

Foreign Correspondents

Carter Paterson
Adam Kaufman

Staff

Henry Wineburgh
Arjun Puri
Rohit Kumar
Zach Moskow
Nathan Marak

Unpaid Interns

Jess King*
Max Woods
Max Lichtenstein
Ike Butler
Jack Killeen
Maddie Lee
Zoe Cooke
Jack Winkelman
Alex Levy
Rahul Oza

*Layout Wizard

If you would like to write, edit, invite us to parties, etc. then email us at:

wunderground@su.wustl.edu

ISSN # 1938-0089

wunderground.wustl.edu

WashU's Definitive Guide to Housing

With housing selection coming up, we all know that the options can be overwhelming for freshmen and upperclassmen alike. Luckily, we here at WUnderground have you covered. With this comprehensive housing guide, we can help you select the ultimate ResLife-bachelor fuckpad.

Gregg House

Boasting beds, bathrooms and carpeting, Gregg House is a great choice for Sophomore housing.

Walk Times:

Brookings: 11 min
The Bunny: 4 min
Sam Fox: 3 yrs

Pros: Closest building to Danforth Campus
Cons: Dumb fucking name. "Gregg?" C'mon.

Mudd House

Mudd House is a great option for when your so-called "friend" decides your lottery number is too shitty to join his suite (thanks, Brad).

Walk Times:

Chancellor Wrighton's Opium Lounge: 8 min
My buddy Tyler's place: 4 min
Los Angeles International Airport: 36000 min²

Pros: Large common room windows allow you to see more sin
Cons: It's apparently "unacceptable" to masturbate in Mudd library³

Rutledge Hall

Rutledge Hall may be outdated, but hey, so is institutional racism, and that seems to be thriving.

Walk Times:

Rutledge Hall: 0 min
Nearest Publix: 19365 min
A higher plane of existence: 18 min

Pros: Affordable!
Cons: So fucking haunted. A Victorian-era child was murdered here centuries ago by a drunken traveler. Rutledge may claim to have singles, but you'll literally NEVER be alone. Any stream of consciousness is drowned out by her desperate cries for help, as her nightmarish presence chills you to the bone. The heating can also be a bit wonky.

Village House

If you like the South 40, the Village is the perfect way to continue living out that weird, Truman Show reality.

Walk Times:

The Arch: 136 min
March: 20 days
Starch: Downstairs

Pros: Village Eatery further postpones impending doom of one day cooking for yourself. I know it was you who set off the fire alarm in Park trying to make popcorn. You're 20 years old, man, get your shit together.
Cons: Sometimes I have a really hard time falling asleep; I just lay awake in bed thinking about mistakes I've made, people I've hurt, and where to go from here. Sorry, what were we talking about again?

Everly on the Loop

Everly is a great place to live off of your scumbag lawyer parents' dirty money.

Walk Times:

The Lagoon: Real Close
When things were happy, with Lisa: 12 days, 7 hours, 46 minutes, and 30 seconds
2018 Chevy Impala: Up to 28 mpg

Cook Ave. Crack House

While a bit far from Danforth Campus, the crack house on Cook Ave. offers a tight-knit community, real-world experience, and crack cocaine.

Walk Times:

Adult Video Store: 3 min
Radio Shack: 16 min
Dave & Buster's: 30 sec

Pros: Fun late nights that become early mornings, and then late nights again
Cons: N/A

Point

Fuck You, Lisa!

By: As If You Even Care

You know what, Lisa? I was just about finished with your bullshit anyway. It's not like I even wanted to road trip to Chicago together like we always planned and look at our intertwined hands reflected in the Bean while your beautiful eyes sparkled like a thousand suns. Good riddance.

Counterpoint

Lisa, Please Take Me Back

By: I'm So Lonely,
So Very Very Lonely

"What about us? What about everything we've been through?"-Troy Bolton, High School Musical 2
"Baby don't hurt me, don't hurt me no more." -Haddaway, What is Love
This is how I feel about you, this and more. Please give me another chance.

2. Papa John's Pizza, call online ordering customer service number toll-free 877-547-PAPA (7272)

3. Vātsyāyana. The Kamasutra. Benares Jai Krishna-das-Haridas Gupta, 1929.

From the Archives: Diary of a B-Schooler

Editors' note: the following excerpt was taken from a notebook unearthed in an Umrath study lounge. The WUnderground Archival Department has identified this artifact as a personal diary that once belonged to a freshman in the Olin School.

Dear Diary,

Today I was in Bauer Hall doing work for Management 100 when I decided I wanted a large chai latte with whipped cream. The line for Starbucks was long, but I had a craving for chai, so I decided to get in line anyways. After fifteen minutes I finally got my drink, but when I took a sip I realized that there was no whipped cream. Normally this wouldn't upset me, but I had to stay up until midnight last night working really hard on MEC 290 and this morning I had two meetings so I'm really tired right now and just needed this drink from Starbucks to make me feel better but there's no whipped cream and it's made my day worse. I hope tomorrow will be better.

While the author of these entries will remain a mystery, he leaves behind a groundbreaking legacy as one of the few business students of his time to become literate above a second grade level.

Dear Diary,

Between you and me, sometimes I think about doing consulting instead of investment banking. I know that Father tells me my future is at Goldman Sachs, but I don't know if I want to work such long hours as an adult, let alone if Goldman Sachs will even hire me considering I'm not even at an Ivy. And at the end of the day, do investment bankers contribute to society in any way other than continuing the circulation of money? As a consultant I could help other companies do big things and make an impact on the world! But Father tells me that the day a son of his goes into consulting is the day he sells his Tesla for a Toyota Camry, and I don't want Father to sell his Tesla because I like when he lets me drive it.

Well, Diary, I don't know what to do. Maybe my DSP Big Sarah would have some good advice for me. She has been helpful in the past, like when I didn't know how to create a line graph in Excel. I'll talk to her Wednesday after Chapter.

Dear Diary,

Today I was in the Bhambri Family Study Room working on Management 100 when the pretty girl from my MEC 290 class walked in. I guess she didn't know I was in there because when she saw me, she blushed and said, "Sorry." I said, "Oh, it's fine," and was about to say more but she turned and left before the words could leave my mouth. I wish we could've had a conversation but I guess she didn't want to talk to a normal guy like me. My friend Alex, who is in Sam Fox, tells me that I should add more color to my wardrobe. I wouldn't do that because I'm scared to seem out of place in Bauer, but sometimes I do think, 'What would it be like to wear a green Patagonia on top of blue Ralph Lauren corduroys with the ends cuffed and a pair of dirty Converse on my feet?' Maybe I'll do that and then transfer to Sam Fox and study architecture. Haha, Father would not like that.

Anyways, I haven't told my DSP friends about the girl because I've seen her wearing AKPsi letters and I don't know how they would react. I know that it shouldn't really matter that we're in different business fraternities, but I can't help but wonder if my DSP friends would abandon me for this, just like they did Jimmy for liking How I Met Your Mother. It's a good thing they'll never hear about this diary, let alone discover I know how to read and write!

Top 10...

Sports That Should Be Included in the Winter Olympics

10. Disney on Ice
9. Ice Skating, but with Horses
8. Equestrian, but with Penguins
7. Bobsledding, but it's just the film Cool Runnings
6. Shotgunning Hot Chocolate
5. Ice Diving
4. Synchronized Shivering
3. Quidditch!
2. Frat Rush...On Ice!
1. Lisa leading me on in the winter but also during every season for three whole years of my life

What Do You Think?

The Philadelphia Eagles bested the New England Patriots for their first-ever Super Bowl victory. What do you think?

Susan

From Kansas City, KS

"Look at how dirty those jerseys are! This is a TERRIBLE Tide ad."

The Football

An ol' pigskin

"GEE WOW I WENT SO FAR AND SO HIGH LIFE IS SUCH A SPECTACLE!"

The GOAT

Not Tom Brady, apparently

blinks and munches on some greens

Bill Belichick

Only speaks with food in mouth

"This loss really deflated our expectations for the year."

George Washington

Just watches for the commercials

"Poor use of a vast field, if you ask me."