

WUUnderground

NOVEMBER 22, 2019

VOLUME 16, ISSUE 4

PRICE: 1 Platinum Meal Plan

BURIED WUNDERGROUND

Thanksgiving Done Right: ROTC Kid Thanks Himself for Own Service

Page 1 Direction

SU Elections Culminate in Historically Close 4-3 Outcome

Page 4 Direction

Oh God, Your Racist Uncle Made a PowerPoint

Page 5SOS

Trump Violates No Nut November, Final Straw in Impeachment Inquiry

Page 30H!3

Bunny Sculpture Still Pondering Second Tour in Iraq

Page Blink 182

“Ok StudLife” Marks the End of Friendly Periodical Relations

Page 50 Cent

Stuff Going On in Chile, Lebanon, Iraq, also Thailand I’m pretty sure?

Page 30 Seconds to Mars

John Delaney Starting to Think He Might Not Win This Thing

It is now being reported that presidential hopeful John Delaney has started to think that he just might not win this thing. Sources close to the unremarkable moderate candidate have noticed a recent dip in his unwarranted confidence.

“Honestly, we’re surprised that it took him so long,” said Alexander “Xan” Fishman, Delaney’s campaign manager. “Most people jumped ship after our Wikipedia article was changed to say that John was killed by Elizabeth Warren during the second debate. I know because I’m the one who changed it.”

As if to prove the point, XanFishman’s voice echoed in the otherwise empty campaign headquarters. Beyond rows of abandoned desks sat stacks of undistributed pamphlets and yard signs, relics of a bygone era for the Delaney campaign.

“John actually came in the other day and asked where everyone was. I didn’t have the heart to tell him, so I just said that they were all out for lunch. He said to keep up the good work, but I think some part of him knew what was going on. He’s really lost that misguided Delaney optimism that made me think I could milk this job until the primary results came in.”

Midway through the interview, John Delaney entered the otherwise vacant office. He nodded, asked if we were “working hard or hardly working?,” but his heart barely seemed to be in it. He invited us to have some of his turkey sandwich and listen to Bruce Springsteen in his office, but it was clear that the altogether doomed candidate would rather be alone.

“His refusal to face reality and drop out of the race is getting frustrating. I was hoping that we’d get this whole thing shut down in time for Halloween and turn this place into a haunted house,” remarked Xan Fishman. “Nothing says terrifying like lukewarm liberalism and lost hopes and dreams.”

WashU Implements New 2-Factor Authentication System

In a joint statement made on Sunday, WashU Information Technology Services and WUPD announced that students will now be required to use WashU 2FA (two-factor authentication) when accessing WUSTL websites and buildings.

In addition to swiping their plastics—WashUID, not Amex—students must scan their Canada goose emblem against a biometric scanner equipped with NASA pattern-recognition technology in order to gain access to most WashU buildings. Critical systems, including WebSTAC, Canvas, Bird e-scooters, and the solar system will no longer work unless students can prove their coastal elitism using WashU 2FA.

If a student cannot produce the proper goose documentation, 2FA accepts the following alternative methods of identification:

DNA sample procured from earwax encrusted airpod
Paternity test verifying that your daddy’s name is on the building

If you have already enrolled in WashU 2FA, no action is required. This new security measure will not affect students who have already conformed to the crippling societal pressure to buy a $995.00 canvas sex-magnet. Max Dingleberry, head of the University Security Division, has neither confirmed nor denied allegations that the new system reflects a desire to “weed out the Patagonia riff-raff.”

Though largely successful, WUPD has noted one minor glitch the new security system: the 2-factor authentication prevents EMS and WUPD themselves from accessing dormitory buildings. Their badges are not currently recognized by WashU 2FA, and the university’s budgeting committee has not yet responded to their requests to upgrade their winter uniforms to Canada Goose apparel. In response to concerns over this slight complication, Dingleberry assured students that the system will remain in place despite any “hiccups,” referencing the potential that 2FA would make buildings inaccessible to “himself, his team of safety enforcers, and, of course, the poor.”

If you have not enrolled in WashU 2FA, please visit the WashU 2FA website to enroll and retain remote access to WUSTL Key protected systems.

Excerpt: The Evening Murmurs of a WashU Emergency Blue Light

Ever wondered what's up with those wacky blue lights all over campus? Wonder no more: the WUnderground Recording Desk (WURD) has helpfully wiretapped your most private emergency communications to shed some light on the happenings at these brooding pillars.

OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT

9:15pm

Hello, you've reached WUPD. What is your emergency?

Bro, come through.

What assistance do you need?

We're just vibing. Come through.

Can I have your name and current location?

Erooo it's Dan. We're at the house. My boy said he can get you in.

Bet.

10:23pm

Hello, you've reached WUPD. What is your emergency?

STDCheck.com - A sexual partner tested positive for an STD & recommends that you also get tested. For details, visit STD-check.com/notify Text STOP = Opt-Out Oh, fuck. Forreal?

...

Damn, that's crazy. I gotta change my shit up.

...

Well, thanks for the heads up man.

10:57pm

Hello, you've reached WUPD. What is your emergency?

Hi there, I'm currently unable to get into my room.

Have you lost your keycard?

Nah, I just can't get in.

Please provide a reason so we can best assist you.

Well...my roommate won't stop having sex without me.

Lmao that's crazy, have you tried pulling the fire alarm?

Oh man that's a great idea. Thank you officer!

No problem, virgin.

1:21am

Hello, you've reached WUPD. What is your emergency?

lo-fi indie plays softly

Oh word, is this KWUR?

lo-fi indie intensifies

Wow this is great, thanks for calling!

white dude in Vans rapping

...man I just gotta say this. Weezer is mad problematic.

We hope we've given you a glimpse of all these pillars do for our community. Thanks, WUPD!

[redacted]

HONG KONG FREE PRESS-

Good evening, this is [redacted] reporting live to you from the streets of Hong Kong. A protest has just broken out between [redacted] and pro-democracy factions fighting for the future of the city. Amidst police-civilian clashes, civilians shout "CHINA IS GREAT BULLY" and encourage each other to "add oil" - a phrase meaning to keep up the fight - with megaphones. In 1997, England, give the new world order that no longer approved of its imperialism, decided to finally give up Hong Kong and give control of the city to China. This follows the falling of the great Berlin Wall, another event in major historical change. These new developments were meant to protect people, mostly from the erosion of democracy by evil powers. Hong Kong leader Carrie Lam claims that she should have the power to overrule all legislative Hong Kong more closely with China's laws. Protesters believe that their ability to live freely in a modern world are being taken away by China. Millions of protesters have turned out over the last few weeks, yelling chants and protesting peacefully before China lashed out forcefully with police violence. Protestors are donning innovative shields to rise up and insulate themselves to continue demonstrating peacefully.

Xi Jinping was seen hovering in a trench coat near the edge of the protests.

Air Bud Indicted on Drug Charges

Mugshots of the infamous hound.

Last weekend, multi-sport athlete Air Bud was indicted on public urination and drug charges at a nightclub in downtown Miami. Witnesses claimed they saw him pounding shots of tequila, rolling multiple fatties, and carrying white pills that Air Bud promised were "just doggy treats." After being kicked out of the club for being "too pawsy," Air Bud was caught golden-showering a fire hydrant by police who discovered the drugs in his possession.

What led Air Bud down this path, you ask? Too often, the culprit is likely the pressures of living in the spotlight. "The attention changed Air Bud," Air Bud's former human and low-life grocer Josh Framm explained. "It used to be the two of us, but then he got famous and left me here in the middle of Washington," he shook his head forlornly. "We haven't talked in years and I'm not sure we ever will again, but I will always have a place for Air Bud in my heart. I hope he eventually finds his way back."

The first evidence of Air Bud's unhealthy habits can be traced back to the late 90s. After interviewing rapper J-Kwon, WUnderground discovered his commonly misquoted line "everybody in the club gettin' tipsy" was originally written "Air Bud in the club gettin' tipsy," inspired by a 1999 night when J-Kwon ran into Air Bud at a NYC club during one of Air Bud's unruly benders. "He was on some shit that night, man," elaborated J-Kwon, "I ran into AB passed out and white-nosed in one of the VIP rooms while three blondes played with his fur."

In the mid-2000s, Air Bud's alcohol and drug addiction forced his retirement from sports, disappointing countless adolescent boy-dog duos. Many speculate that his dangerous behavior results from CTE which he incurred over the course of filming his second sports documentary, "Air Bud: Golden Receiver." To learn more about the impact CTE had on Air Bud, WUnderground reached out to Air Bud's children, the Air Buddies, who offered a solemn and simple "Woof, woof, woof."

Seeing another beloved icon succumb to the pressures of living in the spotlight is heartbreaking. "It may require a miracle for Air Bud to change his ways," Air Bud's agent, Rich Paul, laments, "but at the end of the day, Air Bud has always had some magic in him, and not just MDMA."

WUNDERGROUND

WUnderground is WashU's premier (only) satirical newspaper and should be taken about as seriously as the artistic merit of the show "Euphoria".

The news reported by this paper is fictitious. Any resemblance to persons living, ailing or dead is entirely intentional.

OVERLORDS

Max Lichtenstein
Joe

Mikki Janower
Nick

Rohit Kumar
Kevin

Henry Wineburgh
Frankie

MIDDLELORDS

Collin Wettach

UNDERLORDS

- Rahul Oza
- Max Woods
- Arjun Puri
- Jack Killeen
- Alex Levy
- Carlie Darefsky
- Kirsten Holland
- Nicholas LaMorte
- Samson Seley
- Lila Puziss
- Hannah Anderson
- Jon Niewjik
- Katie Liguori
- Abbey Rose
- Ako Sarfo
- Carina Greenberg
- Isabelle Roig
- Jonah Brody
- Michelle Eisenberg
- Will LeVan
- Wyatt Pelton
- Lydia Nickels
- Kamy Chong
- Julia Birnbach
- Josh Keller
- Jonathan Cher

LAYOUT TROLLS

- Jess King
probably a dominatrix
- Zoe Cooke
an utter power bottom

If you would like to write, edit, fund our money-laundering scheme, etc. email us at wunderground@wustl.edu

1 234567 890128 >

ISSN # 1938-0089

wunderground.wustl.edu

Kanye West Enters New 'Bad' Phase in Artistry

Kanye West has never been afraid to push boundaries in the music industry. He pioneered “chipmunk soul” production on The College Dropout, paved the way for emotionally vulnerable rap on 808s and Heartbreak, and showed the world it was okay to be a narcissistic psycho-path on My Beautiful Dark Twisted Fantasy. With the release of Jesus is King, Kanye has entered a new, innovative, ‘bad’ phase in his artistry.

On Jesus is King, Mr. West gets experimental with non-catchy hooks, arrhythmic beats, and half-assed lyrics (“Closed on Sunday / You’re my Chick-fil-A”). The album is set to be a game changer.

“I was struggling to think about where to go after The Life of Pablo,” admitted Kanye, “but then, it came to me: ‘what if I just suck really, really bad?’”

As always, Kanye lived and breathed his art during the recording process. Sources close to Kanye report that he’d prepare for every recording session by hitting his head on the kitchen counter 35 times. He also purposely forgot the English language then relearned it...poorly. “Kanye has never impressed me more,” remarked Ty Dolla $ign, a frequent collaborator. “Forgetting English was a superhuman task, but Kanye is always willing to go the extra mile to improve his art.”

Critics are calling Jesus is King everything from “shitty” to “borderline shitty.”

“People actually liked when

I rapped ‘poopity scoop’ on Lift Yourself,” added Kanye, noticeably surprised at his initial failure to create objectively poor art. “I really had to try to suck harder this time.”

“Sometimes I’d be getting in my element, you know, like really feeling a beat, but thankfully Pusha T or Kid Cudi would stop me,” Kanye continued, “They really helped me keep my vision of a terrible album alive.”

“Kanye has completely changed the game in choosing not to make good music,” commented Hunter Wyman, a ‘Bad Music Historian’ at Harvard University. “This album will surely expand people’s tastes, opening their eyes to a diverse range of sucky music.”

Critics and fans have been universally impressed by Kanye’s ability to seamlessly shift from making good music to making bad music. As Kanye himself puts it, “Who better to sell out to than Jesus?”

Satirical Paper Publishes Entire Article of Just Scatting

Editor’s Note: One of Our Co-Presidents, really, really did not want this article published, for fear that it would ruin the “integrity” of our publication. But in a moment of triumph in this world of darkness, the voices of the powerless masses rose in a blissful chorus, and the staff ignited meaningful change. Without further ado, the fruits of the power of collective action:

Skabity bidabidoo, skibeep beep dibibap! Badap dap pow ba dum dum didum. Bap bap ba deee dap dooo dodododod. Doo doo didatdat. Doo didat dat daaaaa! Boopidee boopidee AHHHHHHHHHH. Skidow! Skidibididibididoo. Skadibididipdipbidet! Doo da li deee dam dam POP. Skiddily bap bap AHH UHHHH HAHAHAAAAA AHHH-HAHAAAAAAGH.

Scoobididoobididooooo. Scoobididoobididooooowhereareyou! Baba lapa dooooo ladada. Dee do dam. Skabity bidabidoo, skibeep beep dibibap! Badap dap pow ba dum dum didum. Bap bap ba deee dap dooo dodododod. Doo doo didatdat. Doo didat dat daaaaa! Baba lapa dooooo ladada dee do dam. Boopidee boopidee AHHHHHHHHHH.

Skidow! Skidibididibididoo. Skadibididipdipbidet! Doo da li deee dam dam POP. Skiddily bap bap AHH UHHHH HAHAHAAAAA AHHHHAAAAAAGH. AEUUUGHAAAAA HAAAAAANH WAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA URGHHHHAAAAA. FUUUUUCK! FUUUUUUUUCK! JESUS FUCKING CHRIST GHEAAAARGHHHHH!

Collin: Skabity bidabidoo, skibeep beep dibibap! Badap dap pow ba dum dum didum

Henry: Bap bap ba deee dap dooo dodododod..

Collin: Doo doo didatdat. Doo didat dat daaaaa!

Rohit: boopidee boopidee AHHHHHHHHHH

Collin: Skidow! Skidibididibididoo. Skadibididipdipbidet!

Henry: doo da li deee dam dam POP

Rohit: Skiddily bap bap AHH UHHHH HAHAHAAAAA AHHHAAAAAAGH

Collin: Scoobididoobididooooo. Scoobididoobididooooowhereareyou!

Henry: baba lapa dooooo ladada DEE do DAMN

Jon:

Op-Ed: I Think That’s Problematic

I think those views are very problematic. For one thing, they have issues. For another thing, they contain all sorts of flaws. It is a logical fallacy to believe those views.

Moreover, the person who has those views is extremely problematic. Their world-view is skewed. They are a problematic figure because there are all sorts of issues with them.

Don’t play devil’s advocate here. Doing so would be problematic. Why? Because it could cause all sorts of problems. Just know that it is morally wrong to defend such bad views.

I concede that you may hold different opinions, and that you many not find those views problematic at all. However, you are wrong and you should feel bad. We know you are wrong because my views are right and your views are different from mine, so your views must be wrong.

In times like these, it is important to remember that we live in a society. There are rules against being problematic and doing problematic things. Keep that in mind the next time you say something that has problems.

OPINIONS

Point: The State Has a Monopoly on Violence

By: Nate Prittlan

Sociology Major

Max Weber’s work informs modern political and societal conflict in salient ways. A neoliberal condemnation of violent resistance has granted the state, and only the state, the ability to use, threaten, and authorize violence against its citizens through police brutality, mass incarceration, and the withholding of public benefits.

Counterpoint: No, I Have a Monopoly on Violence

By: Jax Wilson

10 years old, Just Got a bb Gun

That’s all well and good, but I think you failed to consider one important thing: my cool Uncle just got me this sick bb gun for my birthday. Yeah, I’m pretty much unstoppable with this bad boy. My friend Kevin let me shoot him at point blank the other day, and he still has a red spot on his lower back. I also hurt a Squirrel pretty badly, and have totally made a couple dents in the tree in my front yard. I don’t know who “State” is, but I really don’t think he could step to the bb gun. Anyway, please don’t tell my mom about this—she won’t even let me play Call of Duty and she’ll totally flip if she finds out.

Skymall Presents: White Noise Machine for Realists

From the makers of the original White Noise Machine designed to lull users into a gentle slumber, Skymall presents a new and revolutionary White Noise Machine for Realists. The product is set to hit stores this December, complete with several new pragmatic, true-to-life settings.

For the environmentalists out there, the machine's first new setting will offer rainforest sounds with a topical twist. This new track features the crackling sounds of tree canopies burning, punctuated with the occasional squeal of endangered species killed in the wreckage. Brought to you directly from Brazil's incinerating Amazon, producers say this realistic take on rainforest sound will allow people to sleep knowing the truth... and that's the most peaceful effect of all.

The machine's producers state, "People love the rainforest. There really is a pleasing white-noise quality to it that we think users will love. Also, we couldn't find any original rainforest sounds from before the fires, but this seems to do just fine." President Bolsonaro declined to comment.

The next new track on the White Noise Machine for Realists was engineered for college students. This track features muffled sobs interspersed with the sound of blowing mucus, meant to imitate your emotionally unstable roommate from freshman year.

Here to comment is user Jacob Bernstein, a college student who recently put this setting to the test. States Bernstein, "I'd been having a tough time falling asleep in my single room sophomore year, but this setting put me right to sleep. It's like Max was still there on a bed 3 feet from mine, right back in that deep depression. Those sobs lulled me to sleep all of freshman year. Yeah, I slept great."

Set to hit stores December 12th, the White Noise Machine for Realists will be a sure hit among users of all ages. Stay tuned: producers have hinted at plans to release more groundbreaking settings, such as "The Millennial Special," featuring 11 Hours of Continuous Thunderous Applause.

Trump Pardons McChicken Sandwich He Was Going to Eat

In a moment of deep and profound mercy, President Donald Trump decided to pardon the McChicken he had planned on eating in honor of the Thanksgiving Holiday.

Citing his Christian faith and sudden hankering for a McFish, Trump announced that he would allow the McChicken sandwich, a processed and somewhat ambiguous amalgam of cooked chicken, "to live out the rest of its natural life in the wild where it belonged."

"McChicken is a fantastic guy. #1 clucker. MY people know this, my people would never lay a finger on this McChicken. And the mainstream media, always after McChicken. It's a witch hunt. CNN better watch its back," tweeted

Trump.

"I think this chicken has a really long and healthy life ahead of him," said Trump, bending over to place the sandwich on the White House lawn before giving it a gentle pat. "You're free to go. Fly away now." At press time, the McChicken was seen lying motionless on the grass, completely untouched.

Democrats have taken this gesture as a plea for constitutional leniency from the White House, but have assured reporters that they plan to move forward with their impeachment inquiry. Nancy Pelosi, last seen purchasing an Impossible Whopper from Burger King, could not be reached for comment.

TOP 10...

Things to be Thankful For

11. The fact that I can wear 2 pairs of underwear without anyone knowing
10. The fact I can wear underwear twice in a row without anyone knowing
9. The continued cultural relevance of Vine
8. Woodstock '69
7. All the hard work our RA put into the events we never go to
6. Discourse about Willem DaFoe's Massive Schlong
5. The Ford F-150 with its superior towing strength and storage capacity
4. Flea from the Red Hot Chili Peppers
3. Icebreakers
2. Jazz!
1. The Cold, Distant love of my father

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Your freshman suite is having a disagreement. What do you think?

MATTHEW LIEBERMAN
Lives in Hurd 231

"I've been saying for a while now that we need to have a conversation about this."

BLAKE FELTON
Lives in Hurd 232

"We need to try to empathize with him. We don't understand the whole of his circumstances—we should keep that in mind."

HENRY STILLMAN
Lives in Hurd 233

"All I have to say: 'To everything, there is a season; and a time to every purpose under heaven.'"

CLAY BURNHAM
Lives in Hurd 244

"The breaking point was parents' weekend."

GEORGE WASHINGTON
Not living

"Geez, can't a guy just jack it in the common room every once in a while?"