

WUnderground

Still 99%
Fact Free

Volume 3, Issue 4

05 December 2006

12 Stem Cells

Point/Counter-Point

WUnderground is a satirical newspaper and should be taken about as seriously as a Scientology open house. The quotes and events reported in this paper are completely fictitious... at least to our knowledge. Any resemblance to persons living, ailing, or dead is completely intentional.

Dennis Mickley,
Commander In Chief
Tommy Honton,
Chief of Police
Eric Diamond,
Chief Chief Fun Fun
Arjun Muthusubramanian,
Chief Import
Tyler Greene,
Master Chief

Chiefs of Staff:
Aleya Broadway
Jeremy Carroll
Scott Drattell
Alex Jeffrey
Jesse Markowitz
Rex Harrison
Elizabeth Romaner
Rachel Tepper

We are actively recruiting new chiefs. If you would like to write, edit, doodle, edit, spelcheck, or Sumo wrestle, email us at wundergr@su.wustl.edu and join our Facebook group!

Patrick "Frat Pat" Ferguson, Undergraduate

The longer I'm at WashU, it seems the less satisfied I am with the decisions being handed down by Brookings. From crane proliferation to parking spot reduction, I've found myself questioning whether or not the Wrighton administration is actually doing anything positive for the school. However, the institutionalization of segregated library facilities for graduate students is something I can really get behind! These graduate students need to understand that they're in the minority. Someone needs to put them back in their place, and I'm glad our chancellor was the man to do it. This policy assures that graduates students aren't taking up the under-grad man's space with their "research materials" and stressed out mannerisms. This pretentious group of assholes needs to realize they're not the only ones with stuff to do. What are you crying about, getting two years to write a glorified research paper? Excuse me, two years to write your "thesis." Yeah, well, I've got a beer pong tournament bracket to print out, so stay the fuck off the undergrad man's computer. In fact, most of you are basically getting paid to go to school. You need to realize who's paying your bills, mister graduate. It's the back-breaking work of the undergrad man's parents that allows you to have your precious study rooms. Do you think my dad loves driving his Bentley to the hedge fund knowing that the forty grand he's going to make today is going to keep you comfortable, you societal parasite. Wrighton is getting back on track with setting this school straight, and I'm going to tell him so at the next Danforth whatever dedication.

Dylan Plessy, Graduate Student

Now is the semester of my discontent. A mere three months after having embarked upon my quest to delicately tease the Chinese origins of the lexical set originally containing the word "scrotum" from Trans-Siberian medieval literature, WashU has dealt a blow to graduate students that is forcing me to resign my admission to the university. The segregation of graduate students from undergraduates in the Olin library is the beginning of a slippery slope that hints of Jim Crow. If such abhorrent policies are allowed, what other sorts of mandates will emanate from Brookings? Moving graduate students to the back of the shuttle? Hiring young, up-and-coming professors that recruit top-notch graduate students and then try to molest them on research trips? Reading tests prior to checking out books? I will not remain long enough to find out. I bid a fond adieu to my fellow graduate students remaining behind in the separate, but hardly equal facilities. Installing a keypad and a fold-out desktop on a bathroom stall in the Level B men's room is hardly a "dedicated graduate study," particularly when the keypad is on the inside of the door and the locks require knowledge of a separate code to exit. WashU, I did not score averagely on the GRE and do moderately well in an easy major in order to be so egregiously disrespected during my effort to postpone my unemployment for two years. You'll be sorry when I'm gone, Brookings. You'll be sorry when the covers of the literature reviews read "Plessy Discovers Origins of Scrotum," and you will feel just a twinge of pain as you scan my bio: "Dylan Plessy, PhD. Emory University."

Buried WUnderground:

Domino's Brooklyn Pizza
Too Authentic,
page 483

Nonconformist art museum celebrates
no attendance,
page 495

Red Line Shuttle leads
league in kills,
page 534

Remaining Republicans
band together, vow to fight
democracy,
page 550

Wash U Athletics finds
success in new division 4
league,
page 561

Chancellor adopts campus
hawk, buys matching suit
and Cadillac,
page 606

What do you think?

With the divorce rate skyrocketing, the pressure is on to find the perfect holiday gift for your loved one. What do you think?

Biff Hardy
Spousal Abuser,
Women's Rights
Advocate

"Doesn't matter. I get her the same thing every year."

Donald Rumsfeld
Unemployed

"I'm gonna slip my wife a mickey then unveil the weapon of mass seduction."

Kevin Federline
Rapper, Trailer Trash

"[Fornicate] you, it's K-Fed here and I can rap / I'll [purchase] my [gardening implement] some expensive crap / [My female dog] don't care if I [spend] a buck / Cuz all she ever does is want to - oh wait she left me."

Mark S. Wrighton
Chancellor, Multiculturalist

"We don't give gifts since we celebrate Kwanza."